were did this go?

there is also a site called stagevu, wich you can use that plugin for.

i would be a very happy person if you or anyone can send me the stage6 plugin.

Also is there a wiki or a readme that tells me how to make a plguin myself, if there is no such thing, why not make it?

I'm sorry to tell you that Stage6 does not exist any more. It shut down about 6 months ago!

However, the continued operation of Stage6.com was prohibitively expensive, and ultimately we had to shut it down.<http://www.stage6.com/>

We have removed the plugin from our website because it is now obsolete. But I have added "<http://stagevu.com/>" to our list of requested plugins and will try to create it as soon as possible.

We will create documentation for creating plugins in the future. However, at the moment the development of the plugin code structure is changing so frequently that it would be a waste of time. Once we settle on a stable system we can create proper detailed documentation...
